

Global Security Governance

Our World becomes an extremely unsafe place, because a lot of global hazards threaten all people. It is time to unite the efforts of all countries in order to achieve peace and eliminate the hazards. Military alliances have to be organized, but they should be ruled wisely, not to become a new hazard, which could smash this World.

Обстановка в современном мире обостряется из-за глобальных угроз, способных навредить человечеству. Пришло время объединить силы всех стран во имя воцарения мира. Для этого необходимо формирование военных альянсов, которые должны управляться с умом, иначе все мы окажемся на пороге катастрофы.

The global governance is in crisis, and this problem is especially topical, when defense is mentioned. Global governance in this sphere is essential for the World's stability. Nowadays a great danger threatens all of us – the global terrorism. As this problem concerns everybody, we have to unite our forces to defeat our enemies. That is why it is necessary to organize military alliances: it will provide all armies with unique opportunities such as sharing information, collected by intelligent services, cooperation on battlefields. Furthermore, all military operations require astonishing sums of money; there is no county, which can fund the World's defense over itself. Collaboration is the only way to win this war.

But, unfortunately, military alliances have several drawbacks, related to the global governance. Firstly, leaders of some alliances set wrong goals. The problem is in bipolar system of the World. That is why armies of many countries are united to smash another country or a block of them instead of fighting against the common enemy. Secondly, most countries in military alliances do not have any choice but to obey the hegemon – a leader of the bloc. Unhappily, armies of dependent countries have to serve someone's personal interests, what is again far from protecting the world order. This antagonism provides the global terrorism with a soil, where it can calmly grow, while people, who can overthrow the evil, consider each other to be mortal enemies. A sparkling example of an unsuccessful military alliance is NATO, which, of course instantly associates with all mentioned drawbacks. When NATO was founded, only aggressive goals were set. All members of this alliance shouted in hysteria about a war, but nobody even whispered about the end of disorders and the triumph of peace. Crimes against humanity, committed by NATO, especially by the USA, did not solve the problems, but only contributed to the global terrorism and endless wars. All countries, which followed America's interests are disappointed, because the USA's aim (instead of fighting against the global terrorism) was to weaken Russia (but it became even stronger), while the Russian Federation was interested in negotiation and cooperation and still seeks for it.

Luckily, these problems can be solved. It is needful to diversify the aims and the fields of cooperation of the alliances to reduce aggression. A good warrior is always ready for a battle, but he is always looking forward to returning home to continue a peaceful life, whereas a person, who cannot do anything except fighting, is a threat for everybody, because even in time of peace he wishes to find a reason for confrontation and always finds it (as NATO does). It would be better if countries were long-term allies, but from military point of view, cooperated as ad-hoc coalitions. So they would win wars against global threats and after victories do their best to maintain peace and develop this World in scientific and economic spheres. For example, the counties of SCO (Shanghai Cooperation Organization) work in economic, scientific, cultural and energy spheres, meanwhile they are also successful in fighting the global terrorism and the drug traffic.

Moreover, negotiations are essential, not just to greet each other without any result achieved as it sometimes happens because of stubbornness of one side of negotiations. Productive negotiations are necessary for cooperation between the blocs and inside them, that is why all agreements have to be enforced. Only if alliances are governed successfully, it will be possible to cure the World from the illness of the global terrorism.
